How to Quickly Read your Yoga Account

Account Primer

The way we set up the account is for monthly installments triggered on the 1st of the month.

If a member joins in January, they will see the annual fee plus 12 installments of the monthly fee. Another example, if a member joins in September, they will see the annual fee plus 4 installments.

Definitions:

Overdue payments – this is a payment owed for any previous month

Outstanding payments – this is a payment for the current month (typically)

Future payments – these are the upcoming installments for future months

If a member does not attend in any month, then the installment due is cancelled reducing the annual amount. So for example, in 2025 someone joined in January, their account would have been billed $150 ($30 membership + $10/month for 12 months). If a member misses 4 months, then the number of installments is reduced by 4 and the total bill will be $110 ($150-$10x4 months).

This account says that there is $10 overdue for a past month.

There is a $10 outstanding payment for the current month.

There is a $10 future payment for the next months. In this case, we are in November, so there is only one December payment in the future.

So, at a minimum, the member should pay the Overdue Payment to pay for previous months attended.

Where do the funds go?

98% of the fees are paid out to the instructors. The other 2% is used to purchase equipment, refreshments for the annual meeting, recognitions, the annual CA employee gift fund, supplies for the studios, and sundries.
